The journey took eleven days, two of which were spent at the Vermilion procuring logs and building raft.

C. G. Hughson came in from the Sturgeon on Thursday night to visit his wife who has been occupied at the residence of Mr. R. Secord for some considerable time past. As it was the intention of Mr. Hughson to leave early on Saturday for his home, Mr. Hughson rose before dawn in order to prepare breakfast. On going down stairs to call her husband she received a terrible shock, as he was dead and evidently death had occurred some hours past. Mr. Secord immediately notified the coroner, but as it was known the deceased had for some time suffered from heart trouble and had been examined and pronounced to be in a precarious state, no inquest was held. On the evening before retiring deceased appeared to be in good spirits and showed no signs of collapse. The remains were interred in the cemetery yesterday afternoon. Funeral service being performed at the Methodist church by the Rev. Mr. Thacker. Deceased was 48 years of age.

RAILWAY WRECK.

Saturday's north bound train was badly derailed and wrecked at a point about nine miles south of Wetaskiwin. The train comprised three coaches, having about one hundred passengers, three box cars, and a baggage car. The train was travelling at an ordinary speed, when suddenly the box cars went off the track. This brought the rest of the train to a sudden stop. The running gear of the box cars was badly damaged, but the contents were uninjured. The coaches remained on the track and the passengers, although shaken, were uninjured except one woman who happened to be standing up when the accident took place. The baggage car, Webster's woolen mill, and a couple of cows were turned over, but it is said without serious damage. The baggage car of horses belonging to John Ross, recently telegrapher at Cochrane, was overturned and the horses mixed up very badly. None were killed outright but it is feared that two at least will die. The injuries to the remainder are not yet fully known. A car of horses belonging to John Owens was not very much the worse.

After considerable delay the passengers were taken to Wetaskiwin in box cars. The engine having remained on the track and available for use. The passengers remained at Wetaskiwin until Sunday afternoon. They were then brought on to Edmonton in the box cars. They reached Strathcona about six o'clock.

Another accident might very well have occurred at the Black Mud bridge. Three horses had evidently attempted to cross the bridge and were helped out and swam ashore, apparently not much the worse.

A repairing gang was put at work on Saturday night, where the accident occurred, and it was expected that the track would be in condition for traffic by Sunday night.

The accident was not caused by a washout and indeed is rather difficult to account for, except by the bad condition of the track.

THE HIGH WATER AND THE BRIDGE.

The high water of the past two weeks has, naturally, caused an immense quantity of fallen trees and loose timber, which is generally found lodged along the shores of all rivers, particularly on the bars and banks of our northern streams, which find their source in the mountains and which flow through a heavily timbered country.

To guard against any damaging effects from this cause, to the bridge across the Saskatchewan, the department of public works constructed a pier at the northwest shore to act as a fender to all intruding matter coming down against the bridge pier. How well and with what good judgment that fender was located is now demonstrated beyond the smallest doubt; for the crib work is right in the main flow of timber drifting down stream. Unfortunately it lodged against it and with its limbs, branches and floating rubbish now has the pier in its menacing embrace. This being within about three feet of the top of the structure causes an immense amount of undue pressure, so much so that there is a danger of the centre of gravity being upset.

A gang of men has been at work for days but they appear to make little headway in removing this dangerous obstacle.

The increased resistance offered to the stream at this point, moreover, throws the current against the shore which, if continued for any length of time will tend to undermine the foundation of the southern abutment. It is a question if the extension of the boom, which is strung along the shore just above this point, would not tend to fend off the force of the wash, at least at the surface where most of the damage usually occurs.

EDMONTON BULLETIN JUNE 9th, 1902

THE LATEST SURRENDER.

While the war in South Africa was in progress the interests of the empire made it the duty of every loyal subject to guard carefully against any expression of opinion that might in any way encourage the enemy to prolong the contest. This of course meant that criticism of the policy and conduct of the war was practically suspended. Once the war began the question ceased to be as to the merits of the quarrel between Boer and Britain and became the question of the maintenance of the empire, and the protection of its loyal subjects. But now that terms of peace have been signed, the policy pursued in respect to the war by the British government, and especially the terms of the peace negotiated, become fair matter for consideration and full discussion.

With the sentiment which has prompted the concessions made in the terms of peace there can be no quarrel. They are generous to a degree, and generosity to an enemy is one of the brightest virtues. But to be generous before being just is a weakness, if not a crime. There are other things to be considered than the mere matter of the Boers laying down their arms. It is more important that the prestige of the empire should be maintained than that the war should cease this year or next year or the year after. For only by the maintenance of that prestige is peace in South Africa or elsewhere assured. The two republics opened hostilities without provocation, and during their conduct in many cases violated the usages of civilized warfare. According to modern custom the loser in war pays an indemnity to compensate for the cost to the victor. The fact that Britain pays $15,000,000 to the Boers as a condition of peace can and will only be interpreted by her enemies not as generosity towards a defeated foe, but as a price paid for peace. The fact that the rules of war were repeatedly violated by the Boers and that punishment was not, and will not be inflicted, can only be expected to be translated not as generosity but as cowardice.

Possibly the Boers are not in a position to pay a war indemnity, and possibly to aid them in re-stocking their farms is the only way by which they can become self-supporting citizens. Admitting—as it may be freely admitted—that it is better to put them in a position to become self-supporting than to leave them in poverty, the fact remains that the payment of the money is a condition of their laying down their arms, and that there is all the difference in the world between a concession made as an act of grace to a foe acknowledging himself absolutely defeated and payment promised to an enemy under arms to induce him to lay down his arms.

Just how the loyalists of South Africa will look upon the peace terms can be conjectured. But it is simply evident that Britain is more generous to her enemies than just to her friends. The loyalists of Natal and Cape Colony staked everything, and in many cases lost everything, to uphold the empire. Now they find that the newest and latest development of imperial policy is to buy off its enemies and ignore its friends.

As to the British taxpayer who furnishes the fifteen million dollars indemnity it may be said that it is better for him to pay that much and have peace than to continue paying possibly ten times that amount for the continuance of the war. If the case is put that way it becomes clearly a peace by purchase and not by conquest. But there is another way of putting it. The British taxpayer has spent untold millions in the war to uphold the prestige of the empire, knowing well that he could not lose in South Africa and win in the rest of the world. That prestige lost in South Africa was lost all over the world. And now by paying to secure peace he sacrifices all that he has already paid to secure prestige.

C. P. R. President in Winnipeg.

Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy and party arrived in Winnipeg on Wednesday on his annual tour of inspection. Amongst the replies to the many questions asked on subjects affecting the west, the president stated that it was the intention of the company to spend a large amount of money on the track between Winnipeg and Fort William and that they were gradually building a double track which would be fully constructed as soon as the country needed it. Sir Thomas upset the report which announced that a land company would be formed to handle the C. P. R. lands and said: "The policy of the company is to conduct its business directly and not as the report you refer to suggests."

As to irrigation matters Sir Thomas said this matter was in his mind to discuss with the western officials. The intention was to proceed to the coast on Friday, staying over at the various points en route.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

The past week, the first week of June, has not been marked in this district by the heavy rains of the last week of May. The weather in the early part of the week was damp, cloudy and threatening, but no serious amount of rain fell. Although the ground did not dry up much the high water in the creeks went down, so that no further damage was done to bridges, and steps could be taken to repair what had been done. The weather became fine on Friday, and Friday night was beautiful and clear, but with out frost. Saturday was also a fine drying day, although threatening at times. On Saturday the streets in town had become fairly dry, but were still very rough. There was considerable travel in from the country on Friday and Saturday. The first reports of destruction of bridges were somewhat exaggerated. In a number of cases, although the bridges were damaged or displaced, they were not destroyed. Prompt measures are necessary in order that travel may be fully resumed but the cost will not be as great as was at first feared.

From reports received it appears that there were severe storms in Southern Alberta and in Manitoba during last week, doing serious damage, but they did not reach Edmonton.

Crops are reported to be looking well in all parts of the district except where a small piece of field may be so low as to let the water lie on it. During the wet spell they did not make much growth, but they had had a good start and if the weather remains clear will no doubt come on with much more than ordinary rapidity. Wheat is all in, was sown in good time, and looks well. Nearly the whole of the acreage intended for oats is in the same position. What land remains unsown was chiefly intended for barley, and barley may be safely sown up to the middle of June. Indeed the later barley is sown, provided it is not too late, the better the sample and the heavier the crop. Very little ground has been planted with potatoes as yet, but it is just as well. There is still plenty of time for them.

June is usually the rainy month in this district but now that so much rain has fallen in many places there may be less than usual in June. Heavy rains early in the season can do very little damage. The crop is then growing and needs plenty of moisture. When rain is the most objectionable is late in the summer when the grain should be ripening, and is delayed by wet weather. So far the outlook for crop in this district is very satisfactory.

ROAD MAKING

While the Northwest government may very well be congratulated on the result of the recent general elections, the difficulties which they have at the very same time been called upon to face, as the result of the recent bad weather, are anything but a subject for congratulation. The departure of Premier Haultain for England to attend the coronation throws a specially heavy responsibility upon the remaining members of the government, and especially upon the minister of public works, Hon. A. L. Sifton. As far as matters have yet gone it would seem that every effort is being made to meet the difficulties which have arisen as promptly and in as business-like a manner as possible. But of course it will take time as well as money to repair the damage, and as yet in many instances the condition of the still swollen streams is such as not to admit of repairs being made.

The first thing to do is to repair the bridges, but after they are repaired a great deal of work will be needed on the roads. In many places there are deep lakes through which roads were graded two or three years ago. The work that has been done in such cases has been thrown away. Rights of way will have to be secured around such lakes and new road improvements made. Owing to the dry seasons the dry wash, "straighten the roads," and roads were carried through what had once been swamps and lakes, in the firm belief that the dry seasons would continue. But the experience of this country is that a series of wet seasons follows a series of dry ones. This fact is being brought home very pointedly to the present settlers of the district. And now is a good time to decide where deviations of the surveyed trails are necessary. Had the money, which during the past two years has been spent in road making through dry lakes and swamps, been spent in carrying the roads around them, the travel would not be blocked as it is. It is to be hoped that the like mistake will not be made again.

Enveloped in Flames.

Baku, Russia, June 4.—The Gush-gran, a mud volcano, near the village of Kobi, Caucasus, has erupted, accompanied by enormous reports. The country around the volcano, for some distance, was enveloped in flames, but no fatalities have been reported. A few shepherds were burned and some flocks of sheep destroyed.

Calgary & Edmonton Railway.

The following letter appears in a recent issue of the Calgary Herald:

The railway between Calgary and Edmonton is not a branch line of the Canadian Pacific railway, but is the property of the Calgary and Edmonton railway company. The former is responsible for the operation of the railway, the latter is responsible for the maintenance of the roadbed. Unless the roadbed is in a suitable condition and one which will warrant a train service safe to the public and the running of trains, it cannot be reasonably expected that the company whose duty it is to operate that train service can properly fulfill its obligations, and therefore delays will continue to occur and will in all probability assume more serious proportions each day.

The roadbed of the Calgary and Edmonton railway has never been properly ballasted from the time the railway was constructed, and there are some parts where the ballast has been damaged have never even been properly repaired. The traffic along the railway is steadily increasing and yet no attempt is made to place the roadbed in a suitable condition to meet the proportional requirements.

The railway passes through much country which is flat and there is no natural drainage. The result is that water largely accumulates on each side of the roadbed and undermines the use in many places washes away what small amount of ballast there may happen to be. I noticed this particularly on Monday last the 5th May, while traveling between Strathcona and Wetaskiwin the train passed over a dangerous place north of Leduc where there was literally no ballast at all. A large quantity of water had accumulated on each side of the track and was steadily undermining the roadbed. The ties appeared to be hanging to the rails by means of the spikes and at each end of the ties the stems of young poplar trees had been driven down into the soil to prevent the ties from swinging sideways. That is not an unfair sample of the condition of the roadbed in several places.

The rails are what are known as "light rails," and have become so bent and curved that no means whatever will ever straighten them again.

The damage being done to the roadbed is becoming more serious, and how then can it be wondered at that not only three days' but but one day's rain will be sufficient to tie up traffic.

The C. P. R. Co. have nothing whatever to do with all this. If the C. & E. company wanted to work the train and men to repair their road and asked for them, the C. P. R. Co. would supply them. But the C. & E. R. Co. don't ask for them.

Possibly there may be one work train on the road, but the road is 190 miles long, how can one work train cover all that distance and do the repairing properly?

Now, Sir, there are dependent on the Calgary and Edmonton railway some 800 people, residents of the towns and villages along its line and several thousands more residing at tributary and outlying points. If the C. & E. railway is closed, the residents of Calgary, Edmonton and Strathcona will be in a predicament. I feel sure that they would get the support of every man doing business at the intermediate points along the railway.

Yours truly,

E. D. H. WILKINS,
Wetaskiwin, May 31, 1902.

Mount Pelee Again Active.

Port de France, Island of Martinique, May 31.—The United States steamer Dixie arrived here from St. Vincent last night and left early this morning for New York. Professor R. T. Hill, United States government geologist, and Mr. Russell are passengers on the Dixie. Geo. Kenman and his party are all up country.

At half-past one o'clock yesterday afternoon the submarine cable broke again, and at 2 o'clock Mount Pelee was in violent eruption. Reports received here say the north craters are pouring great torrents of mud in the direction of Vive. Yesterday evening there was an enormous eruption of steam and ashes. This morning a reporter of a New York newspaper went to St. Pierre with the government party engaged in burying the bodies of the victims of the first eruption, but the party was forced to leave, the volcano throwing out threatening volumes of black smoke and loud detonations being heard.

The Blanche is again the cause of a torrent of intensely hot mud, giving off steam and falling into the sea. A portion of the party which went to St. Pierre this morning was in considerable danger, and the captain of the boat says he will not return there again.

The re-establishment of business in Port de France is restoring confidence, and the work of relieving the distress in distant districts is being effectively carried out by a well perfected organization.

The Derby.

London, June 4.—J. Gubbins' brown colt, Ard Patrick, at seven to one ridden by J. H. Martin, the American jockey, won the Derby.

Colonel H. McClellan's Rising Glass was second, and the Duke of Portland's Friar Tuck was third.

Eighteen horses ran.

R. S. Siever's Sceptre was fourth, and R. Forest's Galsard was fifth.

Ard Patrick won by three lengths and the same distance separated the second and third horses.

The time was 2:42.1-4.

The betting was one hundred to fourteen against Ard Patrick; forty to one against Rising Glass; and one hundred to seven against Friar Tuck.

Inclement showery weather prevailed. There were cheers outside the jockey club enclosure as Ard Patrick was leading, but the demonstration was how far he had been from being the favorite. Mr. Gubbins' horse is an Irishman who owns the owned Galtee More which subsequently sold Galtee More to the Russian government for £21,000 ($115,000).

Difficulties to Face.

New York, June 1.—The London correspondent of a morning paper says: "It is admitted, even by optimists, that it will be no easy matter to carry the government through the period of reconstruction."

"The release of the Boer prisoners under safeguards which will preclude the resumption of fighting, and an amnesty for the Cape rebels under conditions which will not tend to condone treason to the empire, are problems of exceptional difficulty. A larger measure of good faith than the Boer warriors, brave and resourceful as they are, have justified, is requisite before the shattered commandos and roving bands of guerrillas can be allowed to disperse with arms in their hands. Cape Colony with a constitutional government is impossible, and with a Dutch population still embittered and demoralized, offers difficulties even more serious than those presented by the two Boer colonies under a military administration. The South Africans are frank enough to admit that the English have always outlasted the English in astuteness, cleverness and persistency, and that the only man capable of meeting them on their own ground, is in his grave among the Mottop hills. They assert that the conclusion of peace will be followed by a revival of Dutch ambition for the re-creation of the confederation which is destined to be formed in South Africa, and that there are only British interests, Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Milner."

Died at His Post.

On Thursday morning the bodies of Engineer Doran and Car Inspector Courtney were recovered, both badly mangled. Doran was evidently crushed to death. Mr. Courtney's death was probably from drowning. The bodies were taken to Calgary.

The engineer was found dead at the post of duty. His hand still grasped the throttle, his eyes fixed as if sleeping the line for a clear road. The road was clear for him, poor fellow, but it was to eternity, instead of Calgary. The recovery of Brinkman, Dunn's body was expected during the day.

The Mails.

Calgary Herald, June 5.—A great deal of dissatisfaction was expressed in town over the fact that the mails were allowed to remain on the other side of the wreckage, caused by a day and a half, while the passengers were conveyed to the city. The letters were brought into town this morning, but the newspapers and other mails remain on the train.

There is mismanagement somewhere when this sort of thing can exist and we are inclined to the opinion that it rests rather with the government officials than with the officers of the company.

A Business of Itself.

"We are not going to have any of your dirt in our good butter," was the reply of Sir William C. Van Horne made recently, when asked if the Montreal syndicate was endeavoring to control the C. P. R. He was at all pleased over the unfounded rumors connecting the two concerns; and added: "The C. P. R. is a business of itself, not connected with any other and not meddling with any other." He was pleased to notice that the people of Canada were awakening to the fact that in the C. P. R. they have something of value, and of substantial worth to the country.

Stops Buying Remounts.

Toronto, May 30.—With reference to sensational stories from the United States about the shipment of thousands of horses and mules intended for the British army to Toronto from Missouri and other States, it is learned here the British government has decided to close up the remount stations in the United States and to concentrate horses at depots here in this city for shipment to South Africa. In view of the expected early end of the war the buying of horses for South Africa has ceased.

Royal Society Favors.

Capt. Bernier's Arctic Project.

The Royal Society bath a high-sounding name, and makes considerable pretensions to greatness. And it has a good right so to do, numbering among its membership the deepest thinkers of Canada, but the casual observer is astonished at the lack of pomp which characterizes its meetings. Rusklin said that the greatest men were always the humblest. And the general meeting of the Royal Society this morning certainly left an impression on the visitor's mind that it was composed of humble-minded men, who talked in everyday language and showed no tendency to flourish tropes and figures and revel in the gigantic words which they could use if they would. The society sat in the West Hall of University College, right near the door. The hall was large, and the audience was small, so a small platform was erected against the south wall, and President London, clerk of the house of commons, stood near the door. The hall was large, and the audience was small, so a small platform was erected against the south wall, and President London, clerk of the house of commons, stood near the door. The hall was large, and the audience was small, so a small platform was erected against the south wall, and President London, clerk of the house of commons, stood near the door.

But in this audience there are noted figures, these kindly, non-pompous fellows and members of the Royal Society are the brain workers of the Dominion. Here to are geographers, hydrographers, and other men, but the most interesting personage at the meeting of the Royal Society this morning was Captain Bernier, a French-Canadian, who is anxious to discover the North Pole and who for several years has been endeavoring to procure the wherewithal to furnish forth an expedition. "Will you claim her own?" This is the question which the intrepid Bernier is continually asking. The would-be Pole discoverer is not chivalrous on the classic model of dignity. He is a friendly, stout, little man, with a black moustache, a winning, hopeful expression, and he carries his high silk hat in his right hand in most engaging fashion when he speaks concerning the project nearest his heart. His motto is "Aime Dieu et ton prochain." "Love God and go thy way." The captain has had a most picturesque career. He went to sea when he was only one year old. When but three years of age he was at the bombardment of Sebastopol, in 1855. At the early age of seventeen he was appointed master of the brigantine St. Joseph. He has crossed the Atlantic 178 times and has commanded no less than 46 different vessels. He has sailed around the world repeatedly and has visited the Arctic regions on more than one occasion. He is sure that he could discover the North Pole if he could obtain the necessary funds, about $100,000 to fit out an expedition.

Capt. Bernier's project for reaching the North Pole was supported this morning by Hon. G. W. Langley, seconded by D. Bovey, of Montreal, and moved: Resolved that the Royal Society re-affirms its approval of the proposition of Capt. Bernier to fit out an expedition to explore the Arctic waters and discover the North Pole, and would recommend the project to the favorable consideration of the government and the public. This resolution was passed unanimously.

Rev. Geo. Bryce, M. A., LL. D., Professor of English literature in Manitoba college, Winnipeg, gave a light lecture in the chancel building this morning on "Picturesque Port Garry."

Americans May Open Behring Sea Question.

Washington, May 29.—The ways and means committee of the house ordered a favorable report on the bill for a reopening of negotiation relative to the fur seal herds of Alaska, with a view to the preservation of the same, prohibiting the killing of the greater number of the seals unless the negotiations for the permanent preservation of the herd are successful. The provision in the bill recites that the regulations in pursuance of the findings of the Behring Sea tribunal "have utterly failed so to protect and preserve these herds from indecent killing and ruinous diminution of life during several years of faithful enforcement."

The bill empowers the president to conclude negotiations with Great Britain for a review of the regulations in order "to reserve the fur seal industry of Alaska for the good of all mankind and to abate the shameful practice of killing fur permitted and conducted." Pending the negotiation the bill authorizes a moratorium upon prohibiting the killing of seals except for native food. In the event that the preservation of the herd is not secured at the opening of the pelagic season of 1902 authority is given to kill all the male and female seals on the Pribiloff Islands, with the exception of ten thousand and one thousand males.

Representative McCallen, of New York, voted against reporting the bill, saying that it proposed the killing of 90,000 seals, apparently through spite.

The Militia Would Parade.

The General Said No!

Ottawa, June 2.—The capital will worthily celebrate the conclusion of peace. The church bells rung a merry peal at noon and the field battery fired a salute. The school children were given a holiday. The Ottawa militia brigade waited to parade to-night, but the general refused permission, and there is a big row on over his action.

Mr. Greenshields Satisfied.

Victoria Colonist, B. C., June 3.—Mr. J. N. Greenshields, K. C., who has been representing Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann in the railway negotiations with the provincial government, left for Montreal last night. Interviewed by a Colonist representative, he expressed himself as entirely satisfied with the railway legislation proposed by the government, and said that he had no doubt whatever that under it a practical agreement for the construction of the railway, in which the province is so much interested, could be arrived at. Mr. Greenshields was inclined to resent the personal attacks made against himself, but he remarked that after all it was ignorance which led to these unfair attacks upon himself personally. While he represented the interests of his clients, he had also been able to lay a foundation for negotiation agreeable to the legislature and people of British Columbia. He repeatedly asserted that everything was in excellent condition to secure the early completion of the Canadian Northern railway system to the Pacific coast.

New Yacht Challenger.

London, May 29.—William Fife and George L. Watson have collaborated on the plans for a new challenger for the America's cup, which will be built by the Denny's at Dumbarton, Scotland. Capt. Robert Wringe, who, with Captain Fife, was on board the Shamrock II, in her series of races for the cup, will be in supreme command of the new yacht.

All the plans are now completed and arrangements have been made for closing the building contract. The new yacht will be constructed under the shed beneath which the Shamrock II was built.

Lawyers Must Wear White Tie.

In the noise court at Vancouver, B. C., when Mr. J. B. Cherry rose, as counsel for the prisoner Gillespie, who was arraigned on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, Mr. Justice Martin said: "You are not strictly attired in the garb usually in such a court as this. You have not a white tie. I must ask you to sit down."

Mr. Cherry sat down and R. L. Reid, of New Westminster, took his place.

No Use for Kruger.

London, June 2.—Cabling from Pretoria, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says the British authorities absolutely rejected the suggestion of the Boer delegates that the terms of surrender should be ratified by Mr. Kruger and declared that the Boers in Europe had no hand in the settlement.

New Musketry Inspector.

Ottawa, May 29.—Quartermaster Sergeant Inspector Gordon of the Manchester Regiment, from the Musketry school at Blythe, England, arrived in the city yesterday. He will act as instructor at the Canadian school of Musketry, Rockliffe, under Lt.-Col. Cartwright during the summer and fall courses.

Capt. Bernier in Ottawa.

Captain Bernier, as ambitious as ever of reaching the North Pole and planting Canada's ensign on it, arrived in Ottawa on the 23rd ult., and was warmly greeted by his many friends. The captain has been doing yeoman service in Montreal in securing private assistance. Yesterday he received a $500 check from a senator, Mr. Henry T. Foy, professor of applied science in McGill university, has written Captain Bernier heartily endorsing his project and wishing him every success.

Captain Bernier will go to Toronto to attend the meetings of the Royal Society of Canada.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Owing to the accident on the main line of the C. P. R. Dr. Goggin and party did not arrive in Edmonton until an early hour on Saturday morning. Part of the programme accordingly had to be dropped, and the rest dealt with more concisely than was intended. The institute was opened at 9 o'clock, by Mr. Ramsey, the president of the Northern Alberta Teachers' Association, who on behalf of his rosters (and "sister" teachers) extended a warm welcome to the visitors. Dr. Goggin, then, delivered an address on composition, in which he outlined methods of work in junior grades. The spontaneous expressions of the pupils own thought, rather than the artificial representation in good style of the thought of others, should be the aim of the teacher. Grave defects should be corrected at a separate period—if possible by the pupils themselves. Careful attention should be given to selecting thoughts, arranging them in their proper order, and proportioning the space to the importance of the thought. The address was helpful in the extreme and was listened to with great interest by those present.

Miss Burnett followed with a paper on drawing. The pupils should draw what he sees, not what he knows to be there. The work should not be hampered by artistic miniature, the object of the exercises being, to train the scholars to draw with freedom and facility.

The first item on the afternoon's programme was arithmetic by Dr. Goggin. He showed the importance of the subject both from a practical and from a disciplining standpoint. The object that the teacher should place before him was the development of the pupils' reason not the training of his memory. The problems given should be as far as possible be of a practical nature and such as the pupil would be expected to encounter in later life. Attention should be given to the logical statement of the work.

Mr. Bennett, the supervisor of Manual training, discussed briefly the importance of manual training as a branch of school work and outlined the methods adopted in the schools already established in the territories. The eye was trained to observe correctly and the hand to reproduce accurately. Instruction was given in cardboard work, woodwork, and clay modelling. Each pupil received individual attention and had his own work bench and tools. They were required first to draw the object and then to make an accurate reproduction of it in wood, clay, or cardboard. Accuracy and self-reliance were important results attained by a course in manual training. The cost of instruction in the case of a town school would be about $400 and of a country school $70 or $80. The cost of maintenance was but nominal. A course for teachers would be provided during July and August. No fees will be charged and every teacher who desires to attend should send in an application at once.

Miss Burnett took up picture study. The child should be able to see beauty and artistic proportion and arrangement in the works of the great masters. Having seen he should express his thoughts in oral and written form. If interpreted aright, the picture should refine and ennoble. Miss Burnett then gave her own interpretation of two pictures selected by the teachers—the Sistine Madonna and the Soul's Awakening. The rapid attention and the applause that followed showed the great interest taken in the subject.

After ever paper an opportunity was given for the asking of questions, advantage was taken of this privilege by many of the teachers. At the conclusion of the day's work a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. Goggin, Miss Burnett and Mr. Bennett for their interesting and instructive addresses.

THE ROADS.

The following letter has just been received by the board of trade, viz.,
Clover Bar, June 3, '02.
F. F. Tims,

Soc. Board of Trade,

Edmonton.

Dear Sir,—As nearly all the bridges, between here and town, have been washed away there is no way of reaching either town. Would you kindly bring the matter before the board of trade so that they take the necessary steps to have a ferry put on at Clover Bar, so that we can get to town. It is urgent that immediate action be taken. Trusting to hear from you soon.

Yours truly,
SID OTTEWELL.

EDMONTON INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

A meeting of the directors of the exhibition was held on Saturday evening at 8 p. m. in the board of trade room. The following gentlemen were present: viz., C. Gallagher, J. H. Gariepy, D. Ross, T. Bellamy, J. H. Morris and F. E. Tims, secretary-treasurer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

In addition to the directors Messrs. G. Manuel, D. Stewart, W. R. West were present.
W. H. Cooper, M. McCauley, J. B. Moore and Geo. Goggin represented the athletic and horse racing committees. The programme for each day's racing and of other events was completed and ordered to be printed.

On the motion of J. H. Gariepy, seconded by D. Ross the secretary was instructed to write to the town council for a grant of $500.

A motion was carried to ask the P. E. in command of the N. W. M. P. to kindly furnish three mounted men for each of the three days.

It was decided to donate the sum of $50 to the fire brigade, provided a programme satisfactory to the directors, be arranged.

The Northwest Farmer is to be notified that it is now too late to advertise.

W. H. Cooper was authorized to purchase baled hay for sale at the fair.

The motion of J. H. Gariepy—T. Bellamy—that the town council be asked to at once fix crossings on 1st street so that entrance to the exhibition grounds can be had which, owing to the railway track, is now impassible, was carried.

WHITE WHALE LAKE AND STONY PLAIN

A. E. Pattison returned from a trip to White Whale lake on Thursday. The bridges across the White Mud on the reserve are gone, and travel is interrupted until they can be replaced, or a corduroy by which they are avoided. A number of settlers who have taken land beyond the White Mud are isolated in the meantime.

Travel to Stony Plain reserve is now by the south trail. The trail is bad but is possible for light rigs.

Crops throughout the whole extent of Stony Plain look splendid. Already the crop in some of the fields is waving in the wind. Very little has been at all damaged by water lying on it, and apparently all the land intended to be sown is in crop. Any that is left is intended for summer-fallow. For miles after the plain is reached, the land appears to be entirely in crop.

—Rome, June 2.—On the receipt of the news of the conclusion of peace in South Africa, the Pope expressed his joy, adding: "I hope to close my eyes on the world—with peace."

The following, however, are expected: Fathers Lestane, Diabow, Father Le Marchand, Calgary; Father Dauphin, Hobima; Father Blanchette, Fincher Creek; and Father Vantigan, Lethbridge.
